A complete list of constituents and weights will be posted on the S-Network Emerging Infrastructure Builders IndexSM website (http://infra.snetglobalindexes.com/about_the_indexes.php) as of the effective date. A large number of companies were added to the index due to a variety of factors, including new listings and increases in overall market cap. All additions are emerging market stocks, which enabled the index to drop certain developed market stocks which were used to maintain sector exposure.

The S-Network Emerging Infrastructure Builders IndexSM is a capitalization-weighted, float-adjusted index of the most prominent infrastructure stocks from developing and middle-income countries, plus a limited number of developed market stocks with extensive emerging markets operations. To be included in the EIBI index, stocks must pass multiple screens, including for capitalization, float, exchange listing, share price and turnover.
